Levittown Woman Tossed Onto Road As Autos Collide

FALLSINGTON, Aug. 17 — A young Levittown woman and a seven-week-old baby, who were tossed to the roadway when two cars crashed on the Lincoln Highway here, have been discharged from a Trenton, N. J., hospital.

The impact resulted in $700 damage to the two vehicles involved.

The injured: Mrs. Louise Potter, 23, of 61 Stonybrook drive, Levittown, fractured left elbow.

Elaine Razzano, seven weeks, of Levittown, fractured skull.

The accident occurred at 12.30 p. m., Friday, at Route 1 and Main street. Mrs. Potter was holding the Razzano baby on her laps, and the two were tossed from the car. They were taken to Mercer Hospital, Trenton, N. J., in Morrisville ambulance. The baby was released yesterday, and Mrs. Potter was discharged Friday.

Damage to each vehicle was listed at $350.

Blind Workshop Puts Machinery Into Operation

Two thousand dollars worth of broom-making machinery, recently installed at the Bristol workshop of the Bucks County Branch of the Pennsylvania Association for the Blind, is being put in operation this morning by William A. Lohler, branch executive director.

Within a week, blind and handicapped workers will begin manufacturing brooms, he said. The director invited eligible residents of the area to apply for training at the shop.

Lohler said visits of door-to-door peddlers with rugs falsely described as made by blind workers have stopped in Bristol township, but his authorized vendors learned of similar fraud attempts in Andalusia. In the latter area, however, the people said they had refused to buy them as a result of a recent warning in The Courier.

Charles Richman, Bristol merchant, was elected to the County Blind Association Branch board of directors at a recent meeting. The directors commended Lohler for his eight years of service with the County Branch.

Yesterday, the Doylestown Lions Club, with other Lions of Bucks County and local merchants, entertained 35 blind persons at a picnic at the Chalfonte Gun Club, Route 202.

A total of 60 attended, including the blind persons, guides, Lions and associates of the County Branch.

The blind were provided with basket lunches and participated in several activities, including a 20-foot basketball toss. The aim of the blind participants was guided by voices of sighted persons standing around the barrel where the balls were thrown. Prizes included lamps, card tables, lawn chairs, blankets and fishing rods.

Music was provided by a quartet that included Dick Brennan, of the Bristol workshop, and Joe Pacifowski.

Wiz, 45, 6328 Wheeler st., Philadelphia, at 9 p. m. last night on Route 13, Eddington, in front of Christ Church.

Stankiewicz' son, Robert, 11, was treated for minor injuries and discharged.

Boy, 11, Captures Most Prizes In Fishing Contest

Eleven-year-old angler Roderick Suppers went home from the annual children's fishing contest yesterday with three prizes.

The biggest fish, a one-pound carp, 13 3/4 inches long, was caught by first-prize winner, Joseph Morris, of 38 Fleetwing road.

Sponsored by local sportsman Lucien R. Pavata with the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association, the contest drew 50 contestants, 16 years old and younger. The youthful anglers cast their lines in the canal in Memorial Park, between Washington street and Green lane.

Suppers won special prize for being the youngest successful fisherman in the contest. He caught four, and got another prize for the best and most fish. Roderick won an additional award for catching the seventh biggest fish, a six-ounce carp.

Lenny Puccio, of Pond street, caught the second largest fish of the day, a 12-ounce pickerel, 14 inches long. Other winners in the big-fish contest were:

Kindergarten May Have To Be Postponed

School Board Feels Primary Grade Obligation

Tullytown Board of Education is aware of the need for a kindergarten, but feels other factors also must be considered. John S. Linscott, board supervisor announced in an open letter from the board to residents of Tullytown borough.

The board reminded the residents that the first obligation of the Board of Education is the education of children from the first grade up. A full-time director of elementary education has been hired, new courses of study and new textbooks have been added to help carry out this obligation the letter said.

School Building
Providing a suitable school building is the second obligation. State approval for building a new school has been received. Plans for the building will be presented to the board this month and the site has been purchased, Linscott added. While these factors do not make it impossible to consider a kindergarten, the board feels that it must be considered carefully, before a decision is made.

The text of the letter follows: Recently, a group of residents presented a petition to the Tullytown School Board asking the board to seriously consider the possibility of starting a kindergarten. The presenting of this petition was done in a businesslike and understanding way and the board wishes to express appreciation for the manner in which the residents

"The board is fully aware, and has been aware for some time, of the need for such a kindergarten. The board is not against such an institution, but the decision to have a kindergarten at this time must be tempered by a number of factors.

"The first obligation the board must consider is the legal obligation.

School Petitioner Raps Statement By Supervisor

Samuel Aronowitz, who last week presented the Tullytown School Board with a petition demanding kindergartens in the Borough, said last night that John S. Linscott's statement about tax assessments "was entirely uncalled for an inappropriate."

"I think he's inaccurate in his assumption that the Borough would have to wait four years if there was a suit brought against Levitt for an increase in taxation, because in any event, Levitt would have to pay his current assessments and the question of any increase would be left in abeyance by the court," he said.

Linscott said at the meeting "litigation right now would be the worst possible thing. It might hold up the taxes required here for from four to five years."

Aronowitz, a former New York attorney, said that meeting was "called primarily to discuss kindergartens, and why Mr. Linscott brought up the subject of taxes and assessments is not entirely clear to the petitioners, who are at a loss to understand his reasoning."

Youth, 19, Held For Auto Theft

YARDELY, Aug. 17—A 19-year-old youth was found asleep late Friday night in a car reported stolen from the Meadowbrook Country Club, Charleston, W. Va., was arrested Saturday by Police Chief Raymond Hoagland.

The suspect, Harold Gibson, was being held in Bucks County Prison in default of $2,000 bail for the grand jury by Justice of the Peace Andrew H. Dillman, Newtown, for "bringing a stolen property into the State."

Gibson, who had been employed six months ago by a Morrisville tile company, was penniless when he was discovered in the car parked in the Yardley Boatyard.

He told Yardley Police Chief Raymond Hoagland he had returned to Bucks County from the farm of his father, Orville, in Charleston.

Yesterday, he refused to give a reason for the admitted theft.

School Head Hits State Ceilings On Building Funds

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 17 — The State Legislature's new bill placing a ceiling on the total amount of school construction by municipal and state authorities this week was criticized by Bucks County School Superintendent Dr. Charles H. Boehm, who said it will stop the county's gigantic school construction program.

In the week before the bill was passed, school boards rushed plans for $10,000,000 in schools to Harrisburg for approval. Most affected by the measure, Dr. Boehm said, are the school districts of Falls, Bensalem, Lower Southampton and Bristol townships, and Quakertown-Tobicon District. The ceiling on school - building funds will be reached in a few months, the superintendent predicted, with additional projects delayed until the 1955 legislative session.

"The Legislature might not agree even then to raise the ceiling," Dr. Boehm said. "At least we have had no such assurance."

The superintendent also lamented the fact that the new law did not set aside $6,000,000 for emergencies, so that school boards with pupils on part sessions and those whose buildings had been destroyed could proceed with necessary construction.

"The impact of this new legislation will be serious to Lower Bucks county, but will not be felt until 1954," he said. "Some school construction not now contemplated may be begun if financed by direct bond issue, but the total permitted is small, and such construction is not eligible for state aid."

Sen. Edward B. Watson, when questioned on the origin of the bill, said that some control had become necessary because of the unusual amount of new building that is now planned or in process in the state by the various school boards. The amount of the ceiling could not be ascertained this morning.

Something new has been added! Several weeks ago the Bristol Courier announced the installation of a modern Fairchild photoengraving system to enable the paper to make printing cuts from readers' pictures.

Now the Courier not only can continue to render that service to its readers but it can take, develop and print its own photographs in less than half-an-hour.

This latest addition to the Courier's growing list of improvements consists of one of the most up-to-date photographic print processing laboratories in Lower Bucks County.

State to Supervise Part-Time Classes In County Schools

State control and supervision of all part-time school sessions was written into law last week as Governor Fine signed a bill requiring State approval of all plans for half sessions.

The same bill provided that the teachers employed in connection with part-time sessions may not teach the second session but shall be available for other work for the same number of hours per day as the teachers on a full school session, Bucks County Superintendent of Schools Charles H. Boehm announced.

County authorities have already taken steps to secure necessary state forms to be used in connection with the approval necessary for the 4000-5000 pupils expected on part sessions in lower Bucks, he said.

The opening of rooms in the new Neshaminy High School and certain rooms in the Delhaas High School will considerably reduce number of high school students on half session when the schools closed, the Superintendent said. The opening of the new Oxford Valley Elementary School building will materially reduce the number of elementary school pupils who otherwise would have been on part sessions, he added.

Sloan Thinks More Acreage Is Taxable

LEVITTOWN, Aug. 17 — Duke Sloan, former vice-president of the Levittown Civic Association, said last night that he "has reason to believe that the Levittown shopping center contains about 20 acres more than the 60 which were assessed."

Sloan, representing the Board of Founders of the Tullytown Taxpayers Association, said that the group was unable to obtain complete figures from Borough Assessor Mrs. Frances Strouse, but said that there was a question in the group's mind about whether the figures are "just," and whether all of the area was assessed.

He said the taxpayers group would demand that Tullytown Borough Council hire a surveyor to determine the exact acreage of the shopping center.

"Based on previous reports and records we believe the area in questions consists of 80 acres," Sloan declared.

Assessment Figures
According to the assessment figures released over the weekend, the shopping center site was tagged with a valuation of $1,151,300. An assessment based on this figure would amount to $345,000.

Sloan pointed out these figures are unofficial and indicated the taxpayers group would file an appeal as soon as the exact acreage of the plot is determined.

"Based on previous reports," he said, "We have reason to believe that there are 20 acres which weren't assessed. We will immediately demand that a surveyor be employed by the Borough Council to determine the exact acreage of the shopping center."

May File Protest
"As soon as we can substantiate our findings," he continued, "And in a room. Smallest of the three rooms is the developing center where all negative processing is carried out in total darkness.

A small compact sink is the focal point here where negatives are developed, the image fixed in an acid solution, and made transparently usable in a hyposulphate clearing bath. All of the solutions are housed in stainless steel, temperature-controlled tanks with light-tight covers.

Film loading and handling also is done in this room where facilities enable the darkroom technician to develop and handle certain ultra-sensitive films by inspection using specially-designed and scientifically filtered light rays.

Printing Lab
In the printing laboratory, in which the developing room is located, the darkroom technician has at his disposal complete print processing facilities.

Also scientifically lighted, this room contains a six-foot stainless steel sink for processing any size photograph; opal glass viewing lights for inspection of films and prints; a water-powered stainless steel drum washer for mass production of prints; a five-foot high enlarger for blowing up small images from any size negative up to 4 by 5 inches; a contact printer for same-size prints for mass production; photographic paper safes for light-tight storage of paper; and shelves and cabinets for storage of photographic supplies and equipment.

The third room, in which the developing and printing rooms are located, contains a rotating heating unit for drying prints. It also contains a retouching desk for correcting faults in negatives and prints, and the Fairchild engraving system for making printing cuts.

Cabinet Work
Cabinet work and partitioning for the project was handled by George W. Scharg, for Carl W. Nelson, Builder, of 247 Roosevelt street.

A cleverly-designed light-tight passbox, built by Mr. Scharg, enables the darkroom technician to pass prints into the drying room without admitting light into the printing laboratory.

Specially-installed switches, suggested by George Bailey and Sons, Electrical Contractors, of Bath road, enable the darkroom technician to cut off all current to the entire laboratory with one switch.

Lights and power for the enlarger and other photographic apparatus were installed by Mr. Bailey's firm.

Painting and finishing for the project was handled by Raymond G. Banker, Paperhanger and Painter, of 240 Mulberry street, Bristol. Also assisting was Alexander S. Conca, machinist, of 424 Pond street, Bristol.

Child's Attitude on Sharing Shaped by Parents' Example

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YOU and I want our children to grow interested in the imperishables. We believe that the church promotes these imperishables more than any other organization. We hope that our children will liberally support the church in order to make religion mean more to them.

How ready our children are now and will be when they grow up to contribute to the maintenance and growth of the church depends pretty largely on the example they see now in us, regardless of our particular religious preference. If they see us putting a quarter on the offering plate when we know we ought to give one or several dollars; if they know we give five dollars to the Red Cross or hospital or community chest when we should give twenty-five or a hundred; when they see us always stingy at giving for any lasting cause, they probably will be just as stingy at giving for good causes when they are adults.

If We Are Generous
If, on the other hand, our children see us be generous with our money for the church and all good programs it carries on; if they see us eager and ready to give liberally to other organizations which help children and other persons not so well blessed with the good things of this world as we are blessed; if, moreover,

our children see us making personal sacrifices, going without some things we would like to have for our personal pleasure in order to give more to the church and other forces which deal with the imperishables, these children will tend to emulate us now and later.

Our children will develop especially in this direction if they see that we derive pleasure from making sacrifices in order to do more lasting good. Some parents are truly wonderful in such ways. They even cause their children to gain pleasure from going without some things in order to contribute more right now.

Sharing Important
The child is fortunate who begins early to practice saving and giving; who finds that sharing is a very important part of all worship service. You and I are sure that our children can gain rich moral and spiritual values from such sharing.

It's a good time now for all of us to take stock of how generous or miserly we are toward the church. As we do so in good conscience, we may feel a bit ashamed of how little we do contribute.

When we consider how small a portion of our income we contribute to the church, we see how little value we have placed on things spiritual. (My new bulletin, "The Young Child and His Religion," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this newspaper.)

Train Engineer Thrills Youngster

By the Stroller

Even the coming of airplanes and the age of the jet have failed to diminish interest and curiosity of America's "young fry" in railroad locomotives.

A small boy had one thrill follow another here recently. His parents took him to a Bristol restaurant for dinner. That in itself was an "event."

But then he spotted a Diesel engine on a spur close to the restaurant. Words tumbled from his mouth, one on top of the other, as he excitedly asked the proprietor, "Is that your engine?"

The restaurateur, always willing to oblige, fibbed slightly as he said "Sure."

But then came the query: "Will you give me a ride on your Diesel?" The restaurateur mumbled and turned pink, not knowing how to get himself out of the dilemma.

But the dream came true, for eating nearby was the Diesel engineer. He saw the eyes grow bigger as the youngster asked the last question.

"I'll give you a ride, Sonny. That's my Diesel," he said, and within minutes the big and the little "engineers" were riding back and forth on the spur.

in a room. Smallest of the three rooms is the developing center where all negative processing is carried out in total darkness.

A small compact sink is the focal point here where negatives are developed, the image fixed in an acid solution, and made transparently usable in a hyposulphate clearing bath. All of the solutions are housed in stainless steel, temperature-controlled tanks with light-tight covers.

Film loading and handling also is done in this room where facilities enable the darkroom technician to develop and handle certain ultra-sensitive films by inspection using specially-designed and scientifically filtered light rays.

Printing Lab

In the printing laboratory; in which the developing room is located, the darkroom technician has at his disposal complete print processing facilities.

Also scientifically lighted, this room contains: a six-foot stainless steel sink for processing any size photograph; opal glass viewing lights for inspection of films and prints; a water-powered stainless steel drum washer for mass production of prints; a five-foot high enlarger for blowing up small images from any size negative up to 4 by 5 inches; a contact printer for same-size prints for mass production; photographic paper safes for light-tight storage of paper; and shelves and cabinets for storage of photographic supplies and equipment.

The third room, in which the developing and printing rooms are located, contains a rotating heating unit for drying prints. It also contains a retouching desk for correcting faults in negatives and prints, and the Fairchild engraving system for making printing cuts.

Cabinet Work

Cabinet work and partitioning for the project was handled by George W. Scharg for Carl W. Nelson, Builder, of 247 Roosevelt street.

A cleverly-designed light-tight passbox, built by Mr. Scharg, enables the darkroom technician to pass prints into the drying room without admitting light into the printing laboratory.

Specially-installed switches, suggested by George Bailey and Sons, Electrical Contractors, of Bath road, enable the darkroom technician to cut off all current to the entire laboratory with one switch.

Lights and power for the enlarger and other photographic apparatus were installed by Mr. Bailey's firm.

Painting and finishing for the project was handled by Raymond G. Banker, Paperhanger and Painter, of 240 Mulberry street, Bristol. Also assisting was Alexander S. Conca, machinist, of 424 Pond street, Bristol.

avenue, Philadelphia, halted at the Trailblazer Diner, Route 1 and Lincoln highway to make a left turn from Route 1 when his car was hit in the rear by another vehicle driven by Louis A. Goldberg, 28, 506 St. Albans road, Chatham Village, Havertown.

Goldberg's wife, Theima, was taken to Nazareth Hospital where she was treated for bruises and lacerations of the forehead and discharged.

Chief Rentz estimated total damages at $200.

3 Cars Crash

A three-car collision occurred Saturday night at 9:15 p. m. when a car driven by Edward H. Fifer, 48, Walnut and Highland Avenue, Andalusia, prepared to turn left on Walnut lane from Route 13.

Stanley Krzeminsky, 3720 Richmond street, Philadelphia, proceeding in the same direction, paused behind Fifer's car when a third car, driven by William J. Madden, 45, Cornwells avenue, Cornwells Heights, rammed into the rear of Krzeminsky's vehicle, forcing it, in turn, to strike Fifer's car.

There were no injuries beyond Madden's losing two knocked-out teeth. He refused medical treatment.

Chief Rentz estimated combined damages at $600.

Child's Attitude on Sharing Shaped by Parents' Example

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

YOU and I want our children to grow interested in the imperishables. We believe that the church promotes these imperishables more than any other organization. We hope that our children will liberally support the church in order to make religion mean more to them.

How ready our children are now and will be when they grow up to contribute to the maintenance and growth of the church depends pretty largely on the example they see now in us, regardless of our particular religious preference. If they see us putting a quarter on the offering plate when we know we ought to give one or several dollars; if they know we give five dollars to the Red Cross or hospital or community chest when we should give twenty-five or a hundred; when they see us always stingy at giving for any lasting cause, they probably will be just as stingy at giving for good causes when they are adults.

If We Are Generous

If, on the other hand, our children see us be generous with our money for the church and all good programs it carries on; if they see us eager and ready to give liberally to other organizations which help children and other persons not so well blessed with the good things of this world as we are blessed; if, moreover, our children see us making personal sacrifices, going without some things we would like to have for our personal pleasure in order to give more to the church and other forces which deal with the imperishables, these children will tend to emulate us now and later. Our children will develop especially in this direction if they see that we derive pleasure from making sacrifices in order to do more lasting good. Some parents are truly wonderful in such ways. They even cause their children to gain pleasure from going without some things in order to contribute more right now.

Sharing Important

The child is fortunate who begins early to practice saving and giving; who finds that sharing is a very important part of all worship service. You and I are sure that our children can gain rich moral and spiritual values from such sharing.

It's a good time now for all of us to take stock of how generous or miserly we are toward the church. As we do so in good conscience, we may feel a bit ashamed of how little we do contribute.

When we consider how small a portion of our income we contribute to the church, we see how little value we have placed on things spiritual. (My new bulletin, "The Young Child and His Religion," may be had in a stamped envelope sent me in care of this newspaper.)

Levittown Center

If the assessments for the Warner Company are just as low, we will file a formal protest with the County Commissioners.

Borough Councilman Arthur F. Leight chairman of the Council's finance committee said it was difficult for him to make a statement on the new figures without having seen the official tabulations.

"I am making a special trip to Doylestown this week to officially check the new assessment figures," he said.

On the basis of published reports, however, he termed the new assessments as ranging from "fair to poor."

President Satisfied

Nicholas Eberle, president of the Council, yesterday expressed general satisfaction over the new figures, particularly of the shopping center and the Levittown display center.

The display center is valued at $55,600 according to the new figures. Assessment for the center was unofficially reported at $25,680.

"I feel that we are reaching a fair assessment," Eberle said. "There is definitely a great deal of improvement on the assessed valuation in the borough as compared to last year's assessment."

Tullytown tax figures available in the chief county assessor's office this morning set the valuation of random Levittown houses at $7,500 and assessment at $2,250.

School Age Cut In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17 — The State Council of Education announced it has issued regulations for admission to school of children less than five years and seven months of age.

The regulation was sent to local school boards under a directive in a new 1953 law giving the regulatory power to it. The normal age of admission to school is six years.

The council noted that under the law there is nothing to require the admission of younger children to school and they cannot be admitted unless they show a mental age of seven years before Sept. 1, the examining county supervisor or psychologist has recommended such early entrance, and the local school board has voted favorably in the matter.

Train Engineer Thrills Youngster

By the Stroller

Even the coming of airplanes and the age of the jet have failed to diminish interest and curiosity of America's "young fry" in railroad locomotives.

A small boy had one thrill follow another here recently. His parents took him to a Bristol restaurant for dinner. That in itself was an "event."

But then he spotted a Diesel engine on a spur close to the restaurant. Words tumbled from his mouth, one on top of the other, as he excitedly asked the proprietor, "Is that your engine?"

The restaurateur, always willing to oblige, fibbed slightly as he said "Sure."

But then came the query: "Will you give me a ride on your Diesel?" The restaurateur mumbled and turned pink, not knowing how to get himself out of the dilemma.

But the dream came true, for eating nearby was the Diesel engineer. He saw the eyes grow bigger and sparkle brighter as the youngster asked the last question.

"I'll give you a ride, Sonny. That's my Diesel," he said, and within minutes the big and the little "engineers" were riding back and forth on the spur.

State Draft Chief Announces Ruling On Present Status

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—Lt. Colonel Henry M. Gross, State Director of Selective Service, has advised Pennsylvania's 175 Local Boards that evidence of fatherhood submitted by registrants and on file with local boards prior to Aug. 25, 1953, must be considered in determining dependency classifications. This ruling applies to cases even when not acted upon until after this deadline.

The recent amendment of Selective Service regulations specifically requires the filing prior to Aug. 25 by a registrant with a dependency claim involving a child, of appropriate evidence such as a copy of a birth record or a physician's certificate of pregnancy, depending upon whether the child is born or not yet born.

Colonel Gross's office said it has recognized that most local boards now have some registrants who have not been classified because their questionnaires have not been acted upon. Due to the age of these registrants they will not be classified until after Aug. 25 when cases come up in proper sequence in the normal classification process under the requirements of the Universal Military Training and Service Act.

The State Director issued this ruling in answer to the question which has arisen as to whether reports of birth and certificates of pregnancy can be the basis of 3-A classification if of record prior to Aug. 25, 1953 but not considered until later.

On the other hand, Colonel Gross points out that neither copies of birth records nor pregnancy certificates will in themselves be the basis for 3-A classification if such are submitted on or after Aug. 25, although they may substantiate 3-A classification based upon extreme hardship and privation involving defined dependents.

All registrants who have already indicated dependency on their questionnaires should file with their local boards before Aug. 25, if they have not already done so, the evidence required to fully substantiate the announcement such dependency as allowable under the amended regulations, the announcement said.

New registrants are being advised of the importance, in their own interests, of providing local boards with information on changes in their status which occur after registering, even before they are required to complete and return their questionnaires, it was pointed out.

tion of educating the children from first grade on up. We have recognized the fact that there have been phases of education in our system that have not been of the best. The board has therefore employed a full time Director of Elementary Education whose job it is to investigate, and make recommendations to the board to correct these inadequacies. New courses of study have been instituted for the first time this school term. New text books are being purchased in order to give our children the best that it is possible to give them. This has all cost a great deal in both time and money.

Obligation Cited

"The second obligation of the board is to provide a suitable, up-to-date school for the children. Much progress has been made along this line. Word has recently been received from the state that permission has been given to proceed with this school. Preliminary plans have been drawn up by the architect and will be presented to the board this month. The ground for the school has been purchased. After the Board's acceptance of the plans, they must be presented to the State for approval before bids can be let out for construction. The exact cost of the school will not be known until all bids are in but a rough estimate would be somewhere around $500,000. Of necessity, these things take time and must be given a great deal of serious thought before actual building begins.

"All of these things are of great concern to the Board. It does not mean that we cannot even consider a kindergarten but it does mean that we must carefully consider all things before making a definite decision on the matter. The Board welcomes aid in all phases of endeavor. The board wishes that any aid or suggestions in the future be handled as pleasantly and amicably as was the presentation of the kindergarten petition. Demands and pressure methods only hasten to cloud any issue and may cause hasty decisions that may be seriously regretted at a later date. The board, therefore, hopes that the residents will accept, as gracefully as possible, the decisions that we make in the future on our multitude of problems of which the kindergarten is one," the letter concluded.

You Needn't Be a Plain Jane

Gloria Swanson is one of many movie stars who has become increasingly glamorous as she's grown older.

By HELEN FOLLETT

SOME of our most beautiful women started out with features that were anything but lovely. Look at the early pictures of Garbo when she first came to this country. She learned how to make herself exquisite.

Gloria Swanson wasn't anything to rave about either. Now, in middle age, she has the face and figure of a charmer. The oldsters, who remember seeing Bernhardt, will tell you that she was no pulchritude winner, but was so fascinating on the stage that her audience was enchanted.

Desire to Be Beautiful

Says a renowned portrait painter, "From the standpoint of good looks, I have found that perfect features mean little. The most attractive women that have posed for me have been those that were lifted to the heights of beauty by their own desire to be beautiful."

That is something for Plain Jane to think about. Let her not dwell upon what she considers hard luck in lacking beauty. She should learn her good-looks lessons. She may discover qualities of loveliness of which she has been unaware.

Make-up Instructions

By creaming her complexion, keeping it dainty and clean, it will take on freshness. Let her seek instructions in the correct use of make-up.

If she feels that she is lacking in the dress sense, she can ask some good friend, who understands line and color, to go shopping with her, help her select clothes and hats that are chic and becoming.

Dropping Pounds

Should it happen that she is overweight, one visit to her physician and he will give her a diet list that will snake off a pound or two a week.

She must not be self-conscious. She must believe that she is attractive, tell herself that she is not without qualities of charm. There are many distinguished women of whom it is said, "No, she isn't pretty—but. And the but right there is an eloquent word."

State Draft Chief Announces Ruling On Present Status

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17.—Lt. Colonel Henry M. Gross, State Director of Selective Service, has advised Pennsylvania's 175 Local Boards that evidence of fatherhood submitted by registrants and on file with local boards prior to Aug. 25, 1953 must be considered in determining dependency classifications. This ruling applies to cases even when not acted upon until after this deadline.

The recent amendment of Selective Service regulations specifically requires the filing prior to Aug. 25 by a registrant with a dependency claim involving a child, of appropriate evidence such as a copy of a birth record or a physician's certificate of pregnancy, depending upon whether the child is born or not yet born.

Colonel Gross's office said it has recognized that most local boards now have some registrants who have not been classified because their questionnaires have not been acted upon. Due to the age of these registrants they will not be classified until after Aug. 25 when cases come up in proper sequence in the normal classification process under the requirements of the Universal Military Training and Service Act.

The State Director issued this ruling in answer to the question which has arisen as to whether reports of birth and certificates of pregnancy can be the basis of 3-A classification if of record prior to Aug. 25, 1953 but not considered until later.

On the other hand, Colonel Gross points out that neither copies of birth records nor pregnancy certificates will in themselves be the basis for 3-A classification if such are submitted on or after Aug. 25, although they may substantiate 3-A classification based upon extreme hardship and privation involving defined dependents.

All registrants who have already indicated dependency on their questionnaires should file with their local boards before Aug. 25, if they have not already done so, the evidence required to fully substantiate the announcement such dependency as allowable under the amended regulations, the announcement said.

New registrants are being advised of the importance, in their own interests, of providing local boards with information on changes in their status which occur after registering, even before they are required to complete and return their questionnaires, it was pointed out.

THE NEGOTIATIONS

It now remains for the Korean political conference to reach agreements that could not be achieved — or which were not permitted to be achieved — by force of arms.

The truce provides for peace talks to commence within 90 days to "settle through negotiation the questions of withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc." On what the negotiators read into those innocuous three letters — etc. — the success or failure of the conference may hinge.

The United Nations General Assembly has been reconvened for August 17 to lay plans for its participation in the peace sessions. Its first task is to decide which member nations will actually participate in the conference, also presumably to determine its interpretation of that fateful "etc."

One issue may overshadow all others as the conference approaches — the familiar clamor, to be raised by the pro-Russian bloc, for Red China's admittance to the U.N. President Rhee's shotgun deadline of six months for reaching agreement on the reunification of Korea will probably be regarded as of little importance.

Underlying the deliberations will be the inclination of some nations to see resolved other outstanding Far Eastern issues — Indo-China and the status of Formosa. Not only will reconciliation be sought between two formerly irreconcilable points of view, but in the case of Red Chinese recognition and Formosa the Western powers themselves are split wide open.

Only one thing is certain: The coming months will not be an easy period in a world that continues to grope for peace.

This Week Brings Kinsey Plus Andrei

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Aug. 17 — (INS) — To the hills, men, or the cellars; there's a frightful week in prospect and this is it.

Andrei Vishinsky is back and the UN's got him. The minute the General Assembly meets at United Nations headquarters today, the comrade can be relied upon to start working us over from top to toe.

And on Thursday the publication of the advance reviews of the Kinsey report on women will revive all those old, tired Kinsey jokes the nation was just learning to forget.

I don't know which I dread most, listening to Vishinsky, the Soviet's sandpaper-tongued orator, denounce us as war-criminals or being bombarded by Kinsey eggs every time I turn on the radio or teevee.

All those decrepit gags that made the Kinsey report on men so hideous six years ago will be brushed up and resuscitated this week, although many of them seemed well beyond the reach of a pulmotor even when first subject to the draft.

As a woman, I can put up with Doc Kinsey's unvarnished report on members of my sex without leaving the room. It's the comedians who are going to drive me out of house and home.

Even in the best of years, August is a trying month given to heat, humidity, sand flies, mosquitoes, rag weed and picnic ptomaine. It is almost too much during the dog days to ask us to see ourselves as Vishinsky sees us and to endure the Kinsey comics.

We shall simply have to grin and bear it while Vishinsky admonishes us war-mongers and germ warfare perpetrators not to be hostile to the Chinese Communists, who were minding their own business until we imperialistically slugged them from behind.

And we must try to keep the old blood pressure from bouncing like a yo-yo when Tovarich unmasks our use of dum dum and bacteriological bullets and never mind American boys retrained from North Korean prison camps in advanced stages of TB.

Even when Vishinsky didn't have a hydrogen bomb in his back pocket, he was not one to spare the rod and spoil the American child. This is going to be a rough week and we had better keep the cold compresses and the fire extinguisher handy.

I had been hoping against hope that we might be spared Vishinsky at this session of the United Nations. It was my secret dream that Georgi Malenkov would not be able to dispense with so valuable a lawyer and prosecutor as Vishinsky, now that Lavrenti Beria is about to be legally liquidated at a treason trial.

UP, OR DOWN?

Vishinsky, the hair shirt of the western world, spring to fame and Soviet fortune as the relentless D.A. in the great crop of purge trials by which Stalin eliminated the opposition in Russia in the thirties.

It would have been lovely for all of us if Georgi had been unable to spare Andrei in the current matter of Lavrenti. But apparently, Georgi has been able to dredge up an alternate to give Beria the business and we're stuck.

And with Doc Kinsey, too. The thing to do is to keep cool, calm and collected.

MONDAY, AUGUST 17—Born today, you are too far easy-going for your own best good. You are much too apt to procrastinate, putting off what should be done today, until tomorrow. Then, when tomorrow comes, you still can't always make up your mind. Your ideals are high and you want to be a great success in the world. But your ambitions, too often, are satisfied with daydreams instead of reality.

You have a deep love for and an interest in the arts. You probably write well and enjoy fine music. You may have some talent in performing on some instrument and might, if you wished, make it your life career.

You are not one who cares too much for business and it will be sheer luck or an inheritance — if you ever have any great amount of money. Your personal needs are quite simple, books, music and pleasant companionship. You are not one to put yourself out to meet people, but once you have made a friend, you are constant and true.

There will probably be but one love in your life. If this culminates in marriage, there should be great happiness in store for you. Fond of children, you would like to have a large family growing up around you. Marriage, too, will give you the incentive to work harder than you would ordinarily.

To find what the stars have in store for tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

known as Students for Democratic Action?

A. It is an affiliate of the Americans for Democratic Action and it receives guidance from that organization.

Q. Had the SDA ever carried on a Student Leadership Seminar in Washington, D. C.?

A. Yes, in the year 1952.

Q. What did these seminars consist of?

A. The seminars consisted of lectures three times a week, given by members of ADA or by government officials.

Q. Where were these meetings held?

A. At the Barksdale Hotel or apartment house.

Q. Are you carrying on a program this year?

A. Yes, there will be 17 students.

Q. Is this a co-educational program?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you obtain jobs for any persons coming to Washington to attend the seminar?

A. Yes.

Q. Are you associated with what is known as the Harvard Liberal Union?

A. Yes.

Q. What were the students expected to do after they returned home?

No answer. A number of other questions were asked, some of which were not answered since Martin expressed a desire to have counsel present, or consult counsel prior to replying.

Martin, and the ADA legislative representative, John Gunther, who was present when Martin was interrogated, said they knew a number of government personnel officers.

The Civil Service sub-Committee was interested in the SDA student leadership program since its propaganda promised students they would have government jobs at their disposal upon arriving in Washington for the summer brain washing.

In 1952 twelve students attended. One worked at the Department of Agriculture, and Martin said he was acquainted with a T. Roy Reid, in that department. Another worked for the District Public Library, the director of which said Martin called her about jobs for deserving SDA members.

The government has a legitimate employment program for students interested in summer-time work, some of which lead nowhere, such as fire watching and mowing lawns, while others are specifically designed to encourage young men and women to begin a government career.

Martin, in sending out application blanks for the SDA's summer series, indicated in his propaganda that government work with Civil Service status would be obtained for all students who attended. This is a hefty promise for a 26-year-old to be tossing around, inasmuch as he has no connection with the Civil Service Commission, or, in fact, with the government.

The facts indicate, however, that he has been able to deliver — last year as well as this year — and the question arises: How?

ADA inflicted itself quite painfully and expensively on the nation, by its impact on and infiltration of the Truman Administration. It's an ironic twist indeed to find it financing its future propaganda through the Federal payroll.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Not The Taft View

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 — It may seem strange to many that the most oleaginous eulogists of Senator Taft since his death are the journalistic and radio columnists and commentators who never said a good word about him while he lived. Among these are the men who dwelt most heavily upon Mr. Taft's alleged isolationism, who regarded him as a sinister and reactionary figure in the Senate and constantly strove to drive a wedge between him and the President. Less than a month ago they thought the Taft influence on Eisenhower a very unhealthy sign. Today, the contention is that the Eisenhower Administration will not be able to function without Senator Taft and accordingly the Republican party is in a bad way, about to bust up.

Without Taft, it is declared, General Ike has no one to lean upon and his "conception of the presidency" (which they profess to know all about) will result in disaster and collapse not only for his party but for him. All of which is the most complete nonsense. The explanation is that it comes almost exclusively from wishful thinkers who are inherently New Deal, were strongly pro-Stevenson in the campaign and who now suffer great pain at the thought of a successful Eisenhower Administration. Of course, as Mr. Eisenhower has said, Senator Taft's death is a great loss to the Administration, the party and the country. But to contend that the Eisenhower program was so built around Senator Taft and so dependent on him that without him it falls to the ground, is to be absurd.

Actually, there is full justification to believe that in the next session of Congress General Ike will be very much more successful than in the one just ended. One reason is that he and his heads of departments will have had six months' experience in dealing with Congress that he utterly lacked last January. This means a lot, General Eisenhower and the men around him may not be politicians — and certainly they are not politicians in the sense that Roosevelt and Truman were. But they are neither dumb nor incurably naive and anyone who thinks they are is just plain stupid. In their first six months they did extraordinarily well for amateurs — and any informed and unbiased man who thinks that in the next session they will not be immeasurably more effective is just not facing realities. Every man on the Eisenhower team — from the captain down — will know vastly better what to do and how to do it than when he first took office. Senator Taft will be missed, of course, but the notion that his passing means either the end of the Republican party or the crumbling of the Eisenhower Administration is too silly to discuss. And Mr. Taft would be the first man to say so.

Another reason is that members of the House (all of whom come up for renomination or re-election in 1954) and members of the Senate, one third of whom must run again next year, will spend the next few months at home in their districts and states. They will have ample opportunity to discover, what every poll has shown, that General Eisenhower is not only just as strong as he was when elected but has gained in popularity and prestige — through the Korean truce, through the record of the last congressional session and by the healthy change in atmosphere which he has effected in Washington.

The fact is that the Democratic National Committee's anti-Eisenhower propaganda, the silly speeches of Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, and the solemn pronouncements of the New Deal columnists have had no perceptible effect. As a whole, the people who elected Mr. Eisenhower are just as strongly with him now as they were last November. Every test shows this to be true. There is not the slightest doubt that members of Congress, during this recess, will fully realize these facts. Inevitably, the result will be that when they return to Washington next January their disposition will be to follow the Eisenhower leadership more devotedly than before.

Senator Knowland, perhaps, is not the intellectual equal of Senator Taft, but he is a strong, able, honest man, twice elected to the Senate, who will certainly work effectively with President Eisenhower in the next session and will have the regular Republican senators firmly back of him. There will not be a Republican in House or Senate who will not be perfectly aware that upon the success of Eisenhower as President depends his own political future in 1954 and the Republican party's future in 1956. Under these conditions it would seem idiotic for any Republican coming up for election next year or two years from then to put himself in opposition to the Eisenhower policy or program. What possibly would he have to gain? Thus, the shrill cries of the windy Mr. Morse and the efforts of the erudite left-wing publicists to create a Republican rift for next year are not very promising.

The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association is undertaking the project at the request of U. S. Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson for an "expression of opinion from dirt farmers."

President T. P. Kirby, of Macungie, said the survey will be "a broad and extensive discussion of farm and world problems at the local level."

"Farmers," he declared, "had better wake up to their opportunities and responsibilities for free expression or they will find someone else doing their thinking and speaking for them."

Kirby said the survey will touch on U. S. peace efforts, how to maintain a high income, balancing the budget, farm conservation practices, foreign trade and other questions related to agriculture.

Leaders in county farmers' associations were urged to promote large turnouts for September and October discussion meetings.

Grange Fair Slated For October 6, 7 At Heston Manor

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, Aug. 17—Middletown Grange will hold its sixth annual country fair, Oct. 6 and 7 on Heston Manor Farm, Lindenhurst road.

The fairs started six years ago when grange members planned to harvest their first acre of experimental corn. When the group was planning entertainment to go along with the work, Stanley Twining, Newtown farmer, suggested asking farm machinery dealers to display some of their equipment.

This idea has become the backbone of the fair. Each year more businessmen have expressed a desire to become a part of the fair. Last year there were 70 exhibitors, covering about 600 square feet of tent space. The second year, after polling the exhibitors, the Grange decided to hold the fair at night as well as during the day.

This year, in the past, the Stanley Twining are in charge of accepting reservations for exhibitors. Several reservations have already been made for part of the 20 acres provided for the fair. Groups interested in exhibiting are asked to contact Mrs. Twining.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 — Having introduced to you the 26-year-old Galen Martin, whom the Americans for Democratic Action have put in charge of their youth propaganda department, herewith is a sample of the young men, in his own words.

Martin is executive director of the Students for Democratic Action, designed to indoctrinate campus cut-ups in the fine points of left-wingism, and to catch them at an impressionable age.

It is the student level cheering section, to support ADA's declamations that Communist teachers should be allowed full freedom of action in our educational system, and that the Congressional com-

THE NEGOTIATIONS

It now remains for the Korean political conference to reach agreements that could not be achieved — or which were not permitted to be achieved — by force of arms.

The truce provides for peace talks to commence within 90 days to "settle through negotiation the questions of withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc." On what the negotiators read into those innocuous three letters — etc. — the success or failure of the conference may hinge.

The United Nations General Assembly has been reconvened for August 17 to lay plans for its participation in the peace sessions. Its first task is to decide which member nations will actually participate in the conference, also presumably to determine its interpretation of that fateful "etc."

One issue may overshadow all others as the conference approaches — the familiar clamor, to be raised by the pro-Russian bloc, for Red China's admittance to the UN. President Rhee's shotgun deadline of six months for reaching agreement on the reunification of Korea will probably be regarded as of little importance.

Underlying the deliberations will be the inclination of some nations to see resolved other outstanding Far Eastern issues — Indo-China and the status of Formosa. Not only will reconciliation be sought between two formerly irreconcilable points of view, but in the case of Red Chinese recognition and Formosa the Western powers themselves are split wide open.

Only one thing is certain: The coming months will not be an easy period in a world that continues to grope for peace.

Not The Taft View

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 — It may seem strange to many that the most oleaginous eulogists of Senator Taft since his death are the journalistic and radio columnists and commentators who never said a good word about him while he lived. Among these are the men who dwell most heavily upon Mr. Taft's alleged isolationism, who regarded him as a sinister and reactionary figure in the Senate and constantly strove to drive a wedge between him and the President. Less than a month ago they thought the Taft influence on Eisenhower a very unhealthy sign. Today, the contention is that the Eisenhower Administration will not be able to function without Senator Taft and accordingly the Republican party is in a bad way, about to bust up.

Without Taft, it is declared, General Ike has no one to lean upon and his "conception of the presidency" (which they profess to know all about) will result in disaster and collapse not only for his party but for him. All of which is the most complete nonsense. The explanation is that it comes almost exclusively from wishful thinkers who are inherently New Deal, were strongly pro-Stevenson in the campaign and who now suffer great pain at the thought of a successful Eisenhower Administration. Of course, as Mr. Eisenhower has said, Senator Taft's death is a great loss to the Administration, the party and the country. But to contend that the Eisenhower program was so built around Senator Taft and so dependent on him that without him it falls to the ground, is to be absurd.

Actually, there is full justification to believe that in the next session of Congress General Ike will be very much more successful than in the one just ended. One reason is that he and his heads of departments will have had six months' experience in dealing with Congress that he utterly lacked last January. This means a lot. General Eisenhower and the men around him may not be politicians in the sense that Roosevelt and Truman were. But they are neither dumb nor incurably naive and anyone who thinks they are is just plain stupid. In their first six months they did extraordinarily well for amateurs — and any informed and unbiased man who thinks that in the next session they will not be immeasurably more effective is just not facing realities. Every man on the Eisenhower team — from the captain down — will know vastly better what to do and how to do it than when he first took office. Senator Taft will be missed, of course, but the notion that his passing means either the end of the Republican party or the crumbling of the Eisenhower Administration is too silly to discuss. And Mr. Taft would be the first man to say so.

Another reason is that members of the House (all of whom come up for renomination or re-election in 1954) and members of the Senate, one third of whom must run again next year, will spend the next few months at home in their districts and states. They will have ample opportunity to discover, what every poll has shown, that General Eisenhower is not only just as strong as he was when elected but has gained in popularity and prestige through the Korean truce, through the record of the last congressional session and by the healthy change in atmosphere which he has effected in Washington.

The fact is that the Democratic National Committee's anti-Eisenhower propaganda, the silly speeches of Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, and the solemn pronouncements of the New Deal columnists have had no perceptible effect. As a whole, the people who elected Mr. Eisenhower are just as strongly with him now as they were last November. Every test shows this to be true. There is not the slightest doubt that members of Congress, during this recess, will fully realize these facts. Inevitably, the result will be that when they return to Washington next January their disposition will be to follow the Eisenhower leadership more devotedly than before.

Senator Knowland, perhaps, is not the intellectual equal of Senator Taft, but he is a strong, able, honest man, twice elected to the Senate, who will certainly work effectively with President Eisenhower in the next session and will have the regular Republican senators firmly back of him. There will not be a Republican in House or Senate who will not be perfectly aware that upon the success of Eisenhower as President depends his own political future in 1954 and the Republican party's future in 1956. Under these conditions it would seem idiotic for any Republican coming up for election next year or two years from then to put himself in opposition to the Eisenhower policy or program. What possibly would he have to gain? Thus, the shrill cries of the windy Mr. Morse and the efforts of the erudite left-wing publicists to create a Republican rift for next year are not very promising.

Grange Fair Slated For October 6, 7 At Heston Manor

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, Aug. 17—Middletown Grange will hold its sixth annual country fair, Oct. 6 and 7 on Heston Manor Farm, Lindenhurst road.

The fairs started six years ago when grange members planned to harvest their first acre of experimental corn. When the group was planning entertainment to go along with the work, Stanley Twining, Newtown farmer, suggested asking farm machinery dealers to display some of their equipment.

This idea has become the backbone of the fair. Each year more businessmen have expressed a desire to become a part of the fair. Last year there were 70 exhibitors, covering about 600 square feet of tent space. The second year, after polling the exhibitors, the Grange decided to hold the fair at night as well as during the day.

This year, in the past, the Stanley Twining are in charge of accepting reservations for exhibitors. Several reservations have already been made for part of the 20 acres provided for the fair. Groups interested in exhibiting are asked to contact Mrs. Twining.

Farm Survey Planned in Pa.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17 — (INS) — Plans were announced today for "the most extensive farm survey ever conducted in the Commonwealth" to gather opinion on what type program Congress should enact.

The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association is undertaking the project at the request of U. S. Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson for an "expression of opinion from dirt farmers."

President T. P. Kirby, of Macungie, said the survey will be "a broad and extensive discussion of farm and world problems at the local level."

"Farmers," he declared, "had better wake up to their opportunities and responsibilities for free expression or they will find someone else doing their thinking and speaking for them."

Kirby said the survey will touch on U. S. peace efforts, how to maintain a high income, balancing the budget, farm conservation practices, foreign trade and other questions related to agriculture.

Leaders in county farmers' associations were urged to promote large turnouts for September and October discussion meetings.

Janice McEuen, R. S. Bailey Take Their Marriage Vows

A mid-August nuptial ceremony attended by a large company on Saturday at the hour of four, united Miss Janice V. McEuen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. McEuen, 268 Harrison street, and Mr. Robert S. Bailey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Bailey, 321 Monroe street.

Setting for the attractive ceremony was the sanctuary of Bristol Presbyterian Church, the officiating clergyman being the pastor, the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans.

Music, which was arranged for the occasion, was provided by Mr. Horace Hutchinson, Morrisville, organist; and Miss Eleanor Scheetz, Cedar street, vocalist. Miss Scheetz sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Mat Lotte during the ceremony; her other numbers being "Because" and "Through the Years".

The trio of young women serving as attendants of the bride were Miss Elaine Kwochka, Wilson avenue, the maid of honor; and Miss Jane Switzer, Springfield, Delaware county, and Mrs. James Martin, Glenolden, who served as bridesmaids. All three wore floor-length gowns. Miss Kwochka was attired in rose, the strapless bodice being of rayon acetate with inserts of nylon tulle; the skirt of nylon tulle over taffeta. The bolero was also of nylon. The old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses which she carried had blue ribbon bow, the roses, matching those in her headband. Miss Switzer and Mrs. Martin were attired in aqua floor-length gowns of tulle, these being strapless and having side-drape at the hip-line. Stoles were in matching color. Their old-fashioned bouquets of pink roses had pink ribbon bows, and they, too, wore bands of fresh cut pink roses on their hair.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a creation of Chantilly lace over bridal satin with full cathedral train, and featuring a cascade of nylon tulle pleated ruffles on either side. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was dropped from a matching lace bonnet, outlined in iridescent sequins. She carried a white satin Bible with white orchid.

Men who were members of the bridal party are: best man, Mr. Sherman Bailey, father of the bridegroom; ushers, Messrs. Allen Stoneback, Wilson avenue, a cousin of the bride, and Lawrence McManus, Mayfair.

The five o'clock reception had as its setting the social hall of the church.

Upon their return from a week in the Pocono mountains, Mr. Bailey and bride will reside with the latter's parents. Mrs. Bailey chose for her journey a sleeveless cotton print, in black, yellow and white, this having as features shoulder "ties" and a full skirt. A yellow hat and slippers, white gloves and bag completed her costume.

A briege dress was choice of Mrs. McEuen for the ceremony. The bodice and sleeves were of silk, the skirt lace over silk. Matching lace gloves and slippers were worn, her hat being in tangerine velvet, and her corsage composed of pink camellias. Mrs. Bailey, the bridegroom's mother, selected a white pique dress, with inserts of aqua tone on the bodice; black velvet picture hat, black accessories, and corsage of pink camellias.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are graduates of Bristol high school. The former a veteran of army service in Korea, is attending night sessions at Rider College, Trenton, N. J. He is employed by Kaiser Metal Products, Inc. His bride, an alumna of West Chester State Teachers College, will teach first grade in Harriman building during the coming term.

To his bride Mr. Bailey presented pearl necklace and earrings; the bride giving her husband initialled gold cuff links. The bride presented her attendants with initialled wallets; Mr. Bailey giving the best man and ushers initialled bow ties.

Aerial Chapmans Feature at Park

WILLOW GROVE, Aug. 17 — The Aerial Chapmans ladder balancing stunts high above the midway are the feature attraction this week at Willow Grove Park.

Two of the trio are Philadelphians — Danny Chapman and David Seidel. The attractive third member of the team, Joan Chapman, is from Pensacola, Florida.

Of the act itself Danny says: "The act is entirely new to the business and has been worked out through trial and error. It combines the talents of three people who were top performers in other acts. Our finishing trick has never been done before and ours is the only act presenting it. Costumes are designed especially for the act and are all made by hand by Joan."

Text:
"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God" (Ephesians 2:8).

Grace is one of the profoundest subjects of Divine Revelation, so that no mind can fully comprehend it. Still we are not left in utter darkness. It has pleased God to reveal to mankind that salvation is all of grace. Were it not for the kindness and love of God bestowed upon unworthy sinners such as we are, there could be no hope for the best of us.

It is "the grace of God that bringeth salvation" (Titus 2:11), and if we are saved at all we must confess that it is God who hath saved us according to His own purpose and grace (11 Timothy 1:9). The very plan of salvation springs from our Father's grace. Some of the world's foremost religious would urge us to do the best we can, but our human best falls short of God's righteous requirements. We need His grace, and that grace is freely bestowed upon all who will receive it in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Their old-fashioned bouquets of pink roses had pink ribbon bows, and they, too, wore bands of fresh cut pink roses on their hair.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a creation of Chantilly lace over bridal satin with full cathedral train, and featuring a cascade of nylon tulle pleated ruffles on either side. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was dropped from a matching lace bonnet, outlined in iridescent sequins. She carried a white satin Bible with white orchid.

Men who were members of the bridal party are: best man, Mr. Sherman Bailey, father of the bridegroom; ushers, Messrs. Allen Stoneback, Wilson avenue, a cousin of the bride, and Lawrence McManus, Mayfair.

The five o'clock reception had as its setting the social hall of the church.

Upon their return from a week in the Pocono mountains, Mr. Bailey and bride will reside with the latter's parents, Mrs. Bailey chose for her journey a sleeveless cotton print, in black, yellow and white, this having as features shoulder "ties" and a full skirt. A yellow hat and slippers, white gloves and bag completed her costume.

A beige dress was choice of Mrs. McEuen for the ceremony. The bodice and sleeves were of silk, the skirt lace over silk. Matching lace gloves and slippers were worn, her hat being in tangerine velvet, and her corsage composed of pink camellias. Mrs. Bailey, the bridegroom's mother, selected a white pique dress, with inserts of aqua tone on the bodice; black velvet picture hat, black accessories, and corsage of pink camellias.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are graduates of Bristol high school. The former a veteran of army service in Korea, is attending night sessions at Rider College, Trenton, N. J. He is employed by Kaiser Metal Products, Inc. His bride, an alumna of West Chester State Teachers College, will teach first grade in Harriman building during the coming term.

To his bride Mr. Bailey presented pearl necklace and earrings; the bride giving her husband initialled gold cuff links. The bride presented her attendants with initialled wallets; Mr. Bailey giving the best man and ushers initialled belt buckles.

Aerial Chapmans Feature at Park

WILLOW GROVE, Aug. 17 — The Aerial Chapmans ladder balancing stunts high above the midway are the feature attraction this week at Willow Grove Park.

Two of the trio are Philadelphia — Danny Chapman and David Seidel. The attractive third member of the team, Joan Chapman, is from Pensacola, Florida.

Of the act itself Danny says: "The act is entirely new to the business and has been worked out through trial and error. It combines the talents of three people who were top performers in other acts. Our finishing trick has never been done before and ours is the only act presenting it. Costumes are designed especially for the act and are all made by hand by Joan."

Text:
"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God" (Ephesians 2:8).

Grace is one of the profoundest subjects of Divine Revelation, so that no mind can fully comprehend it. Still we are not left in utter darkness. It has pleased God to reveal to mankind that salvation is all of grace. Were it not for the kindness and love of God bestowed upon unworthy sinners such as we are, there could be no hope for the best of us.

It is "the grace of God that bringeth salvation" (Titus 2:11), and if we are saved at all we must confess that it is God who hath saved us according to His own purpose and grace (II Timothy 1:9). The very plan of salvation springs from our Father's grace. Some of the world's foremost religious would urge us to do the best we can, but our human best falls short of God's righteous requirements. We need His grace, and that grace is freely bestowed upon all who will receive it in our Lord Jesus Christ.

Rohm & Haas Is First Entry In Bowling League

The first entry in the Bristol Major Bowling League for this coming year is the Rohm & Haas team, league official Leon Plavin announced.

Entries are being accepted for this fast league. To be eligible to bowl, in the Major League the team average must be at least 850-900, Plavin said. Captains of bowling teams and organizations interested in getting into this league were urged to signify their intention early as there is room for only 12 teams this year, Plavin said.

Last year's championship was captured by the Sanitary Disposal Team of Philadelphia. This year it is expected that new entrants will come from Levittown, Fairless Hills, Burlington, New Jersey, (except for last year there had always been at least one team representing Burlington in this league. It is hoped that Burlington will be back in the league this year), Kaiser Metal (it is heard, that two teams from Kaiser Metal are going to enter the league), Bristol, Croydon, Langhorne, Philadelphia, Trenton and Morrisville.

The first meeting for the organizations of this league will be held Monday evening, 8:30 p. m., August 24 at Bristol Bowling Alley, Monroe and Farragut avenues.

C. team to content with on Wednesday evening. "Chick" Stansky is Franklin's leading moundsman.

Hound Training Season Begins

Though comparatively few owners train their bird dogs, or rabbit or coon hounds, in mid-summer's heat and dryness the dog training season is now in effect in Pennsylvania. It came in August 1 and will continue to March 31, inclusive, 1954.

Sunday training is lawful but, except on publicly-owned lands, consent of the owner of the property where such training is contemplated must first be secured. The law prohibits the carrying of a shotgun or rifle during dog training.

Rabbit or bird dogs may be trained from sunrise to 9 p. m., Eastern Standard Time, raccoon dogs from sunrise to midnight, Eastern Standard Time. In any case, dogs must be accompanied by and under the control of their owner or handler, and injury or death may not be inflicted upon birds or animals pursued by dogs in training.

L. B. L.'s to Cross Delaware River Like Washington

The Little Bigger Baseball League will stage a crossing of the Delaware tomorrow at the same spot where General Washington and his handful of troops crossed on Christmas Night, 1776.

The League will be represented by 136 boys from all parts of the United States. Eddie Fisher, famous TV and radio star, is expected to be present for the opening ceremonies. The group will be welcomed to Washington Crossing Park by the Chairman of the Park Commission, Howard G. Krupp.

Following the crossing, the boys will view America's best-loved historical painting, Emanuel Leutze's "Washington Crossing the Delaware," now on loan to the Washington Crossing Park Commission by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They will then return to Trenton for their second world series baseball game.

The regional championship teams are as follows: Region 1—Stamford, Connecticut; Region 2—Burlington, New Jersey, and Harlem Valley, New York; Region 3—Cincinnati, Ohio; Region 4—Natchez, Mississippi; Region 5—West Des Moines, Iowa; Region 6—Austin, Texas; Region 7—Seattle, Washington; and Region 8—Visalia, California.

Bristol Anglers Catch 156 Blues

A group of six fishermen returned from a day's outing aboard Capt. Jeff Stackhouse's boat at Barnegat Light, N. J., last Thursday, with 156 blues and a 28-pound tuna. The tuna was the catch of Tutie Goslin of Bristol, who made his debut as a devotee of Izaak Walton. William W. Wallace, member of Bristol Council, arranged the trip, which included Lester and Arthur Grimes and Albert and Arthur Mancuso, all of Bristol.

Beaver Falls Team Refuses To Accept 2nd Place Trophy

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 17 — A Pottstown team won the Pennsylvania State Knee-Hi Baseball championship Saturday after a final game that was so controversial that the losers, Beaver Falls, refused to appear on the field and accept the second place trophy.

The Beaver Falls boys went home yesterday and left their trophy here objecting to decisions made by the six umpires in the fourth inning including a home run ruled out when the hitter neglected to touch third base.

Pottstown won in the fifth inning with a strike-out, a two base hit, an error, a stolen base and an infield out.

The cancelled-out homer was hit in the fourth with the bases loaded by Bob Lawrence, who drove to deep right field. The Beavers scored only two runs that inning.

Although the Beaver Falls officials would not let their players accept the second place title, they entered no formal protest of the game.

The exciting final game was watched by 1000 persons on War Memorial Field. The American Legion and Knee-Hi Incorporated, sponsored the state championship series. Presenting the first place award to Pottstown were State American Legion Commander Herbert Walker and George Bellis, Legion Activities director.

Individuals and businesses had $216 billion of readily spendable savings after World War II, compared to $22 billion after World War I, estimates a forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study.

State Police Posts Patrols on Pike

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police, joined today with Turnpike Commissioner David E. Watson in stating that at present there are between 83 and 87 men available for patrol duty on the Pennsylvania Turnpike System, and that patrol areas average 20 miles in length.

Colonel Wilhelm noted that arrests this year up to Aug. 1 total 8415 and last year they were less than half that number or 4198. Of this number, 5950 were passenger car drivers and 2435 truckers. Hitchhiking accounted for 18 arrests and 9 were of a miscellaneous nature.

Colonel Wilhelm further stated that additional men for patrols have been authorized by the commission and that as soon as they are available the force will be increased. Commissioner Watson further stated:

"In the interest of safety, more than 3700 vehicles of all types were refused admittance to the Turnpike from Jan. 1 to July 1 of this year."

L. B. L.'s to Cross Delaware River Like Washington

The Little Bigger Baseball League will stage a crossing of the Delaware tomorrow at the same spot where General Washington and his band of troops crossed on Christmas Night, 1776.

The League will be represented by 136 boys from all parts of the United States.

Eddie Fisher, famous TV and radio star, is expected to be present for the opening ceremonies. The group will be welcomed to Washington Crossing Park by the Chairman of the Park Commission, Howard G. Krupp.

Following the crossing, the boys will view America's best-loved historical painting, Emanuel Leutze's "Washington Crossing the Delaware," now on loan to the Washington Crossing Park Commission by the Metropolitan Museum of Art. They will then return to Trenton for their second world series baseball game.

The regional championship teams are as follows: Region 1—Stamford, Connecticut; Region 2—Burlington, New Jersey, and Harlem Valley, New York; Region 3—Cincinnati, Ohio; Region 4—Natchez, Mississippi; Region 5—West Des Moines, Iowa; Region 6—Austin, Texas; Region 7—Seattle, Washington; and Region 8—Visalia, California.

Bristol Anglers Catch 156 Blues

A group of six fishermen returned from a day's outing aboard Capt. Jeff Stackhouse's boat at Barnegat Light, N. J., last Thursday, with 156 blues and a 28-pound tuna.

The tuna was the catch of Tuttle Goslin of Bristol, who made his debut as a devotee of Izaak Walton. William W. Wallace, member of Bristol Council, arranged the trip, which included Lester and Arthur Grimes and Albert and Arthur Mancuso, all of Bristol.

Beaver Falls Team Refuses To Accept 2nd Place Trophy

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 17 — A Pottstown team won the Pennsylvania State Knee-Hi Baseball championship Saturday after a final game that was so controversial that the losers, Beaver Falls, refused to appear on the field and accept the second place trophy.

The Beaver Falls boys went home yesterday and left their trophy here objecting to decisions made by the six umpires in the fourth inning including a home run ruled out when the hitter neglected to touch third base.

Pottstown won in the fifth inning with a strike-out, a two base hit, an error, a stolen base and an infield out.

The cancelled-out homer was hit in the fourth with the bases loaded by Bob Lawrence, who drove to deep right field. The Beavers scored only two runs that inning.

Although the Beaver Falls officials would not let their players accept the second place title, they entered no formal protest of the game.

The exciting final game was watched by 1000 persons on War Memorial Field. The American Legion and Knee-Hi Incorporated, sponsored the state championship series. Presenting the first place award to Pottstown were State American Legion Commander Herbert Walker and George Bellis, Legion Activities director.

Individuals and businesses had $216 billion of readily spendable savings after World War II, compared to $22 billion after World War I, estimates a forthcoming Twentieth Century Fund study.

State Police Posts Patrols on Pike

HARRISBURG, Aug. 17—Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, Commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police, joined today with Turnpike Commissioner David E. Watson in stating that at present there are between 83 and 87 men available for patrol duty on the Pennsylvania Turnpike System, and that patrol areas average 20 miles in length.

Colonel Wilhelm noted that arrests this year up to Aug. 1 total 8415 and last year they were less than half that number or 4108. Of this number, 5950 were passenger car drivers and 2438 truckers. Hitchhiking accounted for 18 arrests and 9 were of a miscellaneous nature.

Colonel Wilhelm further stated that additional men for patrols have been authorized by the commission and that as soon as they are available the force will be increased.

Commissioner Watson further stated: "In the interest of safety, more than 3700 vehicles of all types were refused admittance to the Turnpike from Jan. 1 to July 1 of this year."
